

MAY BE TRIED FOR MURDER.

Margaret Cuff Remanded to Await the Result of Her Bullet.

Doctors Say Harber Michaels May Not Recover.

Margaret Cuff, a young and pretty Irish-American girl, was remanded without bail in the Yorkville Police Court this morning, to await the result of Joseph Michaels' injuries.

Michaels is an Italian barber. He lived with the girl in equal quarters in the basement of the tenement 756 Seventh avenue. His shop is in front, and the living apartments in the rear.

Margaret says she was married to Michaels at the City Hall in December, 1931, but she denies the statement, and declares that he has a wife and two children in Palermo, Sicily.

Margaret, nevertheless, has lived with him as his wife, and was known as Mrs. Michaels among the neighbors. Their domestic life has been one of quarrels, the result of mutual jealousy.

Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock Michaels left the shop, leaving his assistant, Giuseppe Colaro, in charge. When he returned half an hour later he found Margaret and had been frequently arrested in the past.

When she returned at 5 o'clock he was surprised to find her in the shop. She says she had intended to fire the pistol to frighten Michaels; that she had pulled the trigger, but the cartridges failed to explode.

When the pistol was examined none of the cartridges was found, as must have been the case had the trigger been snapped.

Michaels was removed to Roosevelt Hospital, where it was said this morning there was no chance of his recovery.

Margaret fought like mad when Policemen attempted to arrest her, but she was finally overpowered and taken to the West Forty-seventh street station.

She attempted to cut Michaels' throat with a razor, the police say, about six months ago. She has been frequently arrested in 1930, while an inmate of Mary Scanton's disorderly house, she was arrested in a park and was the principal witness against the proprietress, who was sent to the island and died there.

Presentations of a Bust of Washington by Mr. McVay.

This is a gala day at Grammar School No. 43, Amsterdam avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street, and Principal W. H. J. Seiberg had a houseful of distinguished guests.

The occasion was for an oration on "George Washington" by Adolph L. Stan, Esq., President of the Board of Education. The gift was accepted on behalf of the Board of Trustees by John Whalen, Chairman of the Board, and by Master I. Shapiro, class of '33, on behalf of the school.

There was an interesting programme of exercises by the bright boys and girls of No. 43. Among those present were Trustees Leopold Wornoff, Antonio Radnoski, Robert E. Street and William E. Schilling, Inspectors George H. Toop, G. F. Jackson, M. D., and Samuel Sanders.

Turn Around Is Not Fair Play. Lena Elop and Returned to Charge Michael with Abandonment.

Michael Stein, a Pole, was arraigned in the Tombs Court this morning on a charge of abandonment preferred by a stylish young woman, who said she was his wife.

Stein says he lived with the woman at Hartford, Conn., and they were happy until she fitted with Mark Goldberg and eloped with him.

After she had gone Stein came to this city and got work at his trade of harness-making.

He says though he lived with Lena they were not married, and since coming to New York he has married and is now living with his wife at 218 Eldridge street.

Lena learned of his whereabouts and procured a warrant for his arrest. He was remanded in custody of the City Jail, Counsel for Lena Stein threaten to make a charge of bigamy against Stein.

They Give Up the Hunt. Mrs. Henderson Has Baffled the Process-Server.

Deputy Sheriff Walker and his assistants, who for weeks have been trying to serve an attachment against Mrs. Juliette C. Henderson, wife of Russell Henderson, gave up the attempt this morning, acknowledging themselves beaten.

Mrs. Henderson still keeps behind her barricade, as it were, in room 29, St. Marc Hotel, and she has refused to come out and the hotel attendants stand by her to the man.

Lawyer Julius Levy this morning said he had about given up the attempt. He will ask the court to appoint a receiver to produce her if he is defeated.

ESCAPED CONVICTS CAUGHT. Kelly and Corcoran Must Go Back to Massachusetts. Supposed to Have Been Aided by the Keepers.

Thomas Kelly, aged twenty-three, and Neal Corcoran, aged nineteen, were arraigned before Justice Martin in the Tombs Court this morning and turned over to Supt. Scott, of the Massachusetts Reformatory, from which they escaped Oct. 16 last with Louis Brown, alias "Seating Jim," and Frank J. Quinn, another notorious prisoner with an alias.

Kelly and Corcoran were captured yesterday in company with Patrick Connelly by Detectives McManus and Murphy, of Inspector McLaughlin's staff.

Inspector McLaughlin had been on the lookout for them for some time. At Police Headquarters the two at first denied their identity, but when confronted by Supt. Scott, of the Reformatory, who had been telegraphed for by the inspector, they said:

"The jig is up," and acknowledged that they had escaped from the Massachusetts Reformatory, but when confronted by Supt. Scott, they said they had never been there.

Kelly and Corcoran were serving long sentences for picking pockets in Boston and Cambridge, respectively.

In Kelly's pocket was found a characteristic letter addressed to "Joe Kelly, New York, formerly of Scamvale." It must have been brought to Kelly by messenger.

In the letter the writer, who signs himself "Spide," and who is evidently an inmate of the Reformatory, complains that he was not as successful as the four who made their escape.

The four who escaped to New York, he says, had this week's work. Kelly and Corcoran are supposed to have escaped by fitting into the back of a truck belonging to the wing of the Reformatory, then in process of construction.

The matter in the Tombs is being detected by mingling with the prisoners who were engaged in building the wing.

GILMORE'S CASE ADJOURNED. Argument on a Writ of Habeas Corpus for a Brockway Victim.

Moses H. Grossman, of Friend & House, counsel for John Gilmore, the paroled inmate of the Elmira Reformatory, now confined in the Tombs, appeared before Judge Jacobs in the United States Circuit Court this morning on the writ of habeas corpus issued in Gilmore's case.

Gilmore, who was paroled for good behavior, and who was in the penitentiary for about a year, was released from the Elmira Reformatory, and was incarcerated merely because Brockway increased arbitrary power under the statute.

Assistant District Attorney Feltz appeared in support of the writ, and counsel for the writ was adjourned until next Monday.

Chicago Crank with a Pistol Tackles the Wrong Man. Millionaire Walker Puts Him Out and Calls the Police.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Charles Nostrum, a tall, well-dressed Swede, entered the home of James B. Walker, the Chicago capitalist, last night, and at the point of a revolver demanded a check for $10,000.

Mr. Walker promptly grappled with the would-be robber, rushed him to the door and kicked him down the steps before a shot could be fired.

The man first appeared at the front door of the Walker residence, and politely asked to see Mr. Walker. When Mr. Walker appeared, the intruder inquired for the millionaire, and said he was hard up and must have money.

At this moment Nostrum drew a revolver and dramatically exclaimed: "Write me a check for $10,000 and hand it over quick, or I'll put a hole through your heart."

After kicking the man downstairs, Mr. Walker telephoned to the police, who soon afterwards had Nostrum under arrest. Nostrum has been arrested before, and is regarded by the police as somewhat of a crank. At one time he was examined as a feeble-minded man.

N. Roth, of Chestnut and 24th streets, and stole a quantity of valuable jewelry.
